ABSTRACT

This updated list of 398 books and 141 journals is intended as a selection aid for the small library of a hospital, medical society, clinic, or similar organization. Books and journals are arranged by subject, with the books followed by an author index, and the journals by an alphabetical title listing. Items suggested for first purchase by smaller libraries are noted by an asterisk.

THE development of the regional medical library programs under the sponsorship of the National Library of Medicine has created more interest in strengthening the basic collections of hospital libraries. It seems desirable for local medical libraries to have a minimal collection of books and journals in order to serve better the needs of the practicing physicians in the area as well as the hospital staff. As additional continuing education programs are implemented for the physician, more demands should be made on the local hospital libraries.

The two previous editions of this list have received wide acceptance and have filled a need for a selection aid for both the experienced and the untrained hospital librarian. To be a continual help, biennial revisions are a necessity.

The present edition of this "Selected List of Books and Journals for the Small Medical Library" has been completely revised to reflect the suggestions made by both subject specialists and medical librarians, and incorporates information gleaned from additional sources.

For the very small hospital library, it will be impossible to procure all, or even a majority, of the listed books and journals. Therefore items suggested for first purchase are noted by an asterisk. A very useful and recent list of recommended texts and journals for a core medical library was compiled by Stearns and Ratcliff (16).

Additional selective lists of books and journals have appeared since these were originally enumerated in 1965. Coupled with the older guides, these should be consulted and used in conjunction with the present list (1-2, 4-5, 7, 9-12, 14-17). An excellent Basic List of Guides and Information Sources for Professional and Patients' Libraries in Hospitals was published in August 1967 by the Joint Committee on Hospital Libraries (6). This publication should be available for the use of librarians in small medical libraries and is free of charge.

The Journal of the American Medical Association listed annually from 1964-1966 selected recent medical books with critical annotations by leading subject authorities. It is unfortunate that this practice has been discontinued (13).

The present list is intended as a selection aid for the small library of a hospital, society, clinic, or similar organization. It should be considered in relation to the purposes of the particular institution and the subject specialties dominant therein. Emphasis has been placed on selecting the most recent and authoritative works in the English language in each subject area. The list is by no means complete and should be supplemented by additional books and journals in the specialties of greatest interest to the clientele of the library. Very few expensive sets are noted, and inexpensive alternatives usually are included within the same category. No attempt has been made to list innumerable reference works, since the best selection of such tools is available in the "Basic Reference Aids for Small Medical Libraries" revised by

* A third revised version of a paper originally published in the Bull. Med. Libr. Ass. 53: 329-364, July 1965; and 55: 141-159, Apr. 1967.

LIST FOR THE SMALL MEDICAL LIBRARY

Edith D. Blair, Reference Librarian, National Library of Medicine, and published in the April 1967 issue of the Bulletin of the Medical Library Association (3).

The listing of books in nursing has been enlarged and may still be supplemented by two excellent lists. The "Reference Tools for Nursing," published in the May 1966 issue of Nursing Outlook, was initiated by the Interagency Council on Library Tools for Nursing, and a revised April 1968 reprint may be obtained free of charge from the National League for Nursing (8). Mrs. Jean Frohlich, Librarian, Sinai Hospital, Baltimore, Maryland, assisted the author in revising and updating the nursing list. The most complete and helpful list of materials for the nursing school library is the work compiled by Sister Mary Concordia in 1967 (5).

Although it is possible to order books directly from the publishers, it is usually more satisfactory to choose a reliable medical book dealer in one's city or region, who can obtain any of the volumes desired, and who usually offers a 10 percent discount with postage paid. Typical of such agents are the following: Brown & Connolly, Inc., 779 Boylston Street, Boston, Massachusetts 02116; Burns & MacEachern Limited, 62 Railside Road, Don Mills, Ontario, Canada; Chicago Medical Book Company, 7400 Melvina Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60648; Eliot Books, Inc., 35-53 24th Street, Long Island City, New York 11106; J. A. Majors Company, 139 Forrest Park Avenue, N.E., Atlanta, Georgia 30301; J. A. Majors Company, 147 So. Liberty Street, New Orleans, Louisiana 70112; J. A. Majors Company, 2137 Butler Street, Dallas, Texas 75235; J. A. Majors Company, 6632 South Main Street, Houston, Texas 77025; Mathews Medical Books, 3140 Park Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri 63104; Rittenhouse Book Store, 1706 Rittenhouse Square, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19103; and Stacey's, 2575 Hanover Street, Palo Alto, California 94304.

Similarly, journals can be ordered through an agent, thus saving time in correspondence, purchase orders, and processing multiple invoices. It would be advisable to consult with other medical or university librarians in one's area before choosing such an agent. A few examples of these are: Armed Forces Subscription Agency, 1341 G Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20005; F. W. Faxon Company, Inc., 515-525 Hyde Park Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts 02131; Hanson-Bennett Magazine Agency, 180 No. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60601; J. A. Majors Company, 2137 Butler Street, Dallas, Texas 75235; Moore Cottrell Subscription Agencies, Inc., North Cohockton, New York; and Stechert-Hafner, Inc., 31 East 10th Street, New York, New York 10003.

A great many changes have occurred since this list was originally published. Many new editions of standard works have appeared. Where more recent books have been published, they have supplanted out-of-print or older works in the same subject field if they are just as authoritative. In citing the books, the entry used by the Library of Congress is generally followed. If a work has more than two authors or editors, the phrase "[and others]" is used after the name of the senior author or editor.
