The interrelationship of print and electronic media in the hospital library and its relevance to the "Brandon/Hill Selected List" in 1999 are addressed in the updated list (eighteenth version) of 627 books and 145 journals. This list is intended as a selection guide for the small or medium-size library in a hospital or similar facility. More realistically, it can function as a core collection for a library consortium. Books and journals are categorized by subject; the book list is followed by an author/editor index, and the subject list of journals by an alphabetical title listing. Due to continuing requests from librarians, a "minimal core" book collection consisting of 82 titles has been pulled out from the 214 asterisked (*) initial-purchase books and marked with daggers (†). To purchase the entire collection of books and to pay for 1999 journal subscriptions would require $114,900. The cost of only the asterisked items, books and journals, totals $49,100. The "minimal core" book collection costs $13,200.

What? Another list of books and journals? Who needs it? For that matter who needs print? Full text abounds as e-journals become a reality. Hospitals and libraries are wired. The world literally can be taken home in a laptop. So, who needs librarians or libraries? Are decades of knowledge stored on paper and print being tossed out the window? Many questions, but where are the answers? Maybe in Y2K?

As I compiled the 1999 update of the list of books and journals that follows, at times in my more quixotic moments, I questioned, "Where are the windmills?" Or maybe it was like the Ancient Mariner alone on a wide sea with an albatross around his neck. Realistically, what I was feeling had nothing to do with Don Quixote nor the Ancient Mariner. Instead, it reverted back to one word, "technology," and its side effect, "change." There are many buzzwords in the vocabulary of today's librarian but none is as powerful as the word "change." More than twenty years ago, Alfred Brandon explored the challenge of change in relation to health sciences libraries. He believed that the book is by far the best standard for technological comparison. He questioned that if we as librarians could not cope in our own libraries with the changing times and technologies, could we expect to have nonlibrarians do the job for us? His message, way back then, was the coexistence of print and electronic media to meet the information needs of the library clientele in the best possible way with the resources at hand. He described the avant-garde and the technologically timid; those descriptions could have been written today [1].

In health sciences libraries, there is a mounting clamor for change via technology, and our professional lives will never be the same again. Libraries are in a world beset with change and sometimes are cast adrift in leaky electronic boats. Some library users have become increasingly confused and frustrated by the variety of formats in which information can be accessed. Information overload can do nothing but increase. The technology treadmill will always run faster than we can, and sometimes we simply have to wait. Actually, change is nothing new to librarians, but the velocity of that change often makes us shift our focus or change priorities too soon without providing adequate resources. So hospital librarians and hospital libraries are plowing ahead in uncertain but exciting times.

Health sciences libraries are facing a dilemma described by Naomi Broering as "a transitional stage, confronting philosophical and economic issues associated with preserving emphasis on collection development while adapting new operational procedures related to electronic publications and printing on demand" [2]. Regardless of the growing popularity of electronic forms of information, print will continue to be used for those purposes for which it is useful and convenient. Information will move from one medium to another as the needs of users change [3]. This is probably the most important message that librarians can convey to their administrators, who might be very enthusiastic about the capabilities of electronic media for the hospital library, but have conveniently shown less enthusiasm about the costs involved. It is not uncommon for administrators and users to assume that everything is available full text.

In view of the avant-garde and technologically timid, it might be useful to hypothesize what would happen if all your library's print books and journals were gathered up and thrown in the trash? Would there be any change in your ability to provide information from the remaining electronic media? Obviously, you know the answer. Likewise, what would be the result of getting rid of all the electronic media with only print sources remaining in the library? Needless to say, either action would result in library chaos. As Alfred Brandon pointed out, it is the coexistence of print and electronic media that will get libraries through these times of unprecedented change.

Since 1994, the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations (JCAHO) has designated the "Brandon/Hill Selected List" as a source to consult for authoritative up-to-date resources for the hospital library (Standard IM.9.2) [4]. JCAHO endorsement further increased the importance of the "Br-don/Hill Selected List" as a collection development tool for hospital libraries. It is reassuring to know that the JCAHO continues to consider print media to be part of the biomedical knowledge base.

In addition to the "Brandon/Hill Selected List," the JCAHO has designated "A Library for Internists" as another source for identifying authoritative and up-to-date scientific, clinical, and managerial knowledge for hospital libraries [5]. This annotated list reports the recommendations of the American College of Physicians; it has been updated triennially since 1973 and is published in the Annals of Internal Medicine. The list encompasses both print and electronic media.

Doody's Health Sciences Book Review Journal was initially published in October 1993 and has been endorsed by the Medical Library Association [6]. This publication analyzes and reviews published titles from forty-five publishers worldwide, encompassing seventy specialty areas. At the end of each review there is a numerical rating given by the reviewer, which is known as the Doody number. According to the publisher, a book review is published within ten weeks of receiving the book. Brandon/Hill titles are designated in Doody's Health Sciences Book Review Journal.

A Core Collection of Medical Books and Journals is published in London as a British and international alternative to the "Brandon/Hill Selected List." The third edition was published in 1997; it is scheduled to be updated every two years. Coverage of the British list is primarily clinical [7].

A number of reference books are included in the list, but I have not attempted to present comprehensive coverage of reference sources for the hospital library. Extensive information on biomedical reference material can be found in Roper and Boorkman's Introduction to Reference Sources in the Health Sciences, but it was published in 1994, and is somewhat outdated now [8]. The Interagency Council on Information Resources for Nursing compiles a guide entitled "Essential Nursing References," which is revised biennially [9]. It is an up-to-date list that a hospital librarian can use in developing a reference collection. It contains both nursing reference items and standard biomedical reference works, along with a Canadian supplement. The most recent one was published in the fall of 1998.

Administrators of patient-focused hospitals are extremely concerned about patient education and consumer health. This concern is the ideal entrance point for the hospital librarian to become part of the clinical care team. It is also an opportunity for hospital librarians to explore the entire scope of patient education and consumer health information sources, both electronic and print. The standard work in this field is Rees's The Consumer Health Information Source Book [10]. Login Brothers, Majors Scientific Books, and Rittenhouse Book Distributors have provided assistance to hospital librarians in dealing with popular health publications; other book vendors probably offer comparable services.

The list of recommended print biomedical books and journals that follows is the eighteenth version of an article originally published by the late Alfred N. Brandon in 1965 [11], informally known as the "Brandon List" and later, the "Brandon/Hill List." This work has been updated biennially from its inception in 1965. After my coauthor's death in July 1996, I have continued to update this list for the small medical library as well as the other two lists (nursing and allied health). I have put together this 1999 revision following the procedures that we had used in the past. Because the "Selected List" concept was originated by Alfred Brandon, I believe that his name should appear as part of the title of this and subsequent revisions as the "Brandon/Hill Selected List of Books and Journals for the Small Medical Library."

After a year or thereabouts, I realized that I could not continue to carry on the three "Brandon/Hill Selected Lists" at the same quality level that had previously existed without additional help. A long-time Levy Library colleague, Henry N. Stickell, offered to help out in any way that he could. He made significant contributions to the 1998 nursing and allied health lists by preparing questions for publishers, reviewing publishers' returned correspondence, proofreading, and compiling the author/editor indexes. This collaboration has continued for the 1999 update of the small medical library (hospital) list. He has saved me hours of time that I have been able to devote to the book and journal selection process. I have carefully considered all input—pro and con—from health sciences librarians, editors, clinicians, subject specialists, vendors, publishers, and occasionally my current collaborator. However, the final choice of books and journals in the 1999 list is mine based on my opinion that resulted from having reviewed the literature for the two-year interim period between publication of the lists, and my extensive experience in collection development in the health sciences. From the beginning, the "Brandon/Hill Selected Lists" have always been based on opinion; there is no scientific formula.

This list has traditionally been used as a planning tool for developing or updating a library collection in a hospital or comparable facility involved primarily in patient care. It has also been used as a guide for a core collection for a consortium or network sharing library resources. As book and journal prices continue to rise, I believe that cooperative resource-sharing is fast becoming the primary use of this list. Although this work is done with the hospital librarian in mind, previous versions have been used extensively by other health sciences librarians, academic librarians, public librarians, physicians, and teaching programs. It is important to understand that this list is a guide—not a standard. Sometimes its purpose gets confused.

The majority of the publications are clinical in content, although I have included clinically relevant basic sciences books. I have omitted basic sciences journals because most hospital libraries cannot justify the extremely high subscription costs for low-use material; the fax machine and/or document delivery service can make the contents of these journals readily accessible. If basic sciences journals are required, they should be purchased on a resource-sharing basis with other libraries. The journal list is not intended to support research activities. Information for the journal titles listed here is for print format. I have attempted to assemble a well-balanced current collection of authoritative English-language books and journals, primarily in the clinical sciences. Most, but not all, of the publications originated in the United States. When two books appear to be of comparable content and authorship, I have purposely chosen the most recent one.

In the 1999 book list, 92% of the titles have been published in 1996 or later; 276 books cost $100 each or more. Because current books have been emphasized, some standard works that have not been revised for several years have been dropped from this list. I am aware that "newer" is not necessarily "better," but current books have been given priority. I have not been able to review every English-language biomedical book and journal published during the past two years. Therefore, exclusion of a publication from this list in no way implies that it is not of high quality. I simply may not have seen the item in question. If at all possible, I have tried to include less expensive alternatives along with the expensive books, but in many subject areas inexpensive quality books no longer exist. However, I have included 174 books that have list prices of $50.00 or less. Price information has been supplied by publishers and vendors and is as accurate as I could obtain at the time of publication. Price increases are to be expected.

This list is, as the title implies, limited to print media—books and journals. A hospital librarian who must purchase audiovisuals or microcomputer software, but lacks knowledge of such media, should request assistance from another hospital librarian who has initiated a successful media program or from an academic media center.

Approximately $114,900 would be needed to purchase all of the 627 books and 145 journals (1999 subscriptions) on this list—$75,000 for books and $39,900 for 1999 subscriptions. Items suggested for first purchase, 215 books and 60 journals, are designated by asterisks, because hospital librarians usually cannot afford or may not need all or even most of the listed publications. The cost of the asterisked books and journals is approximately $49,100—$31,300 for books and $17,800 for 1999 subscriptions. In response to numerous requests from hospital librarians, I have chosen from the books what could be considered as a "minimal core list" of 82 titles that have been marked with daggers before the asterisks; the total cost for these books amounts to approximately $13,200. The "minimal core list" is made up of books that a librarian would purchase if he or she could acquire only one or two books from each of the major subject categories, with the exception of dictionaries and directories; several titles have been included for this category. Book price totals are based on the one-volume edition in instances when books have been published in either one- or the more expensive two-volume sets and on "nonmember" prices when indicated for association publications. If a book is published both in hardcover and paperback, the hardcover price has been used.

The increases in book and journal prices for titles in this list and its previous versions are shown in Table 1. From 1965 to 1999 there has been an increase of 697% ($15.00 to $119.57) in the average price per book title. During the same thirty-four-year period, the average price per journal subscription has increased 1,879% ($13.19 to $275.03).

The figures stated here apply only to publications that appear in this list or have appeared over the years in its predecessors. The "per-title" calculation includes the cost of all volumes in a multivolume set. The average volume price for the 704 books that make up the 627 title book collection is $106.49, $13.08 less than the per-title average. In instances where a title appears in either one or two volumes, it has been considered as one volume in the physical volume count. Titles do vary from list to list, but the cost figures are representative of those being incurred by hospital libraries in acquiring current books and journals. Most of the journal titles are domestic, and therefore do not reflect higher prices frequently charged by foreign publishers. Even so, 93% of the journals cost $100 or more, while 43% of the books have reached that status. It should be noted that the print indexes in the journal list may not be relevant any longer to many hospital libraries. If such be the case, $1,800 could be deducted from the 1999 subscription total cost.

The book titles in this list are divided into fifty-nine subject categories and the journals into forty-six. Five new categories have been added this year: Alternative/Complementary Medicine, Evidence-Based Medicine, Managed Care, Medical Informatics, and Palliative Care. The new categories have frequently been requested for this list by a number of librarians who felt these subjects were essential in today's health sciences environment. Both my late coauthor, Alfred Brandon, and I had talked about adding some of these very subjects. Persons needing information relating to nursing and/or allied health should consult the other two "Brandon/Hill Lists" published in 1998 that deal directly with these subjects [12, 13]. New editions scheduled to appear in early to late spring of 1999 are being designated in the book list as published; they mostly should be available by the time that the April 1999 issue of the Bulletin is released. If a new edition is supposed to be available later in 1999, I have used the bibliographic information for that edition, with a note, "in preparation."

If a book has more than two authors or editors, the notation "[and others]" is made after the name of the senior author or editor. In the index of authors and editors, I have included only the senior persons; coauthors and coeditors do not appear. If the name of the original author or editor is an integral part of the book title, that name appears in the index.

Because of mergers, takeovers, and the changing of publishers' names, the imprint on a book may not necessarily be indicative of the publisher who is presently distributing the book. Little, Brown (health sciences), Lippincott-Raven, and Williams & Wilkins all now belong to Lippincott Williams & Wilkins. F. A. Davis has sold its clinical titles to Oxford University Press. Churchill Livingstone has become an imprint of Saunders. I have tried to cite the books by using the names of the publishers who are currently distributing them. It is difficult to keep track of who is publishing what. As a matter of course, I routinely indicate the publisher from whom a book can be obtained in the United States if it is not of U.S. origin. The book list shows the current publisher that owns the title.

This list, as well as the nursing and allied health lists, will be updated quarterly between the published biennial revisions in A Major Report, a newsletter originated and edited by Alfred Brandon until his death [14].

Perhaps it is time for me to step down from the Brandon/Hill soap box. I have not meant to malign the presence of technology in the library. Instead, it has been an attempt on my part to view the concept of the "Brandon/Hill Selected List of Books and Journals for the Small Medical Library" in a contemporary information environment. Does it have a place? Is it worth the work in spite of the all too frequent attitude of "books aren't us" that tends to hover over the health sciences library community? My answer is "yes." Hospital librarians will continue to deal with print books and journals both presently and in the foreseeable future. I have tried to provide, in a concise package, a look at the current biomedical print literature for the past two years. The actual choices have to be made by the individual librarian based on the needs of his or her institution. I hope my suggestions prove helpful.
