

Erratum to: Perceptions of genetic research in three rural Appalachian Ohio communities

A. N. Fullenkamp · E. N. Haynes · P. Succop ·
D. W. Nebert · L. Meloncon

Published online: 21 September 2012
© Springer-Verlag 2012

Erratum to: J Community Genet DOI 10.1007/s12687-012-0112-2

The original publication of this article contain the following errors:

This acknowledgment was erroneously omitted: This research study was supported by the National Center for Research Resources and the National Center for Advancing Translational Sciences, National Institutes of Health, through Grant 8 UL1 TR000077-04 and the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences 5 T32 ES016646-05 and R01 ES016531, and P30 ES006096.

The abstract lists two percentages which should be contained by parenthesis. The statement should read: “We found that participants had a high interest in participating in (80 %), allowing their children to participate in (78 %), and learning more about genetic research studies (90 %).”

The word “logarithmically” in the Introduction section, first paragraph should be changed to “exponentially.” The sentence should read: “Therefore, appreciation of the complexities of the genome and the interplay between genes and the environment have grown exponentially, subsequently spurring an increase in human genome-sequencing technologies.”

The word “effects” in the Methods section, first paragraph, third sentence should be “affects.”

Under the Data Management and Analysis Section under Methods, the word “numbers” should be “number” in the following line: “Incomplete or improperly answered questions were discarded, resulting in a varying number of respondents for each question.”

The online version of the original article can be found at <http://dx.doi.org/10.1007/s12687-012-0112-2>.

A. N. Fullenkamp · E. N. Haynes (✉) · P. Succop · D. W. Nebert
Department of Environmental Health, College of Medicine,
University of Cincinnati,
Cincinnati, USA
e-mail: Erin.Haynes@uc.edu

L. Meloncon
Department of English and Comparative Literature,
College of Arts and Sciences, University of Cincinnati,
Cincinnati, USA