

CORRIGENDUM

Low absolute peripheral blood CD4+ T-cell count predicts poor prognosis in R-CHOP-treated patients with diffuse large B-cell lymphoma

Y Kusano, M Yokoyama, Y Terui, N Nishimura, Y Mishima, K Ueda, N Tsuyama, H Yamauchi, A Takahashi, N Inoue, K Takeuchi and K Hatake

Blood Cancer Journal (2017) 7, e561; doi:10.1038/bcj.2017.43; published online 12 May 2017

Correction to: Blood Cancer Journal (2017) 7, e558; doi:10.1038/bcj.2017.37; published online 21 April 2017

Following the online publication of this article, the authors noted an error in the author names: Dr Yamauchi's name was incorrectly spelled as Y Hirofumi. The complete and correct names and affiliations are: Y Kusano,<sup>1</sup> M Yokoyama,<sup>1</sup> Y Terui,<sup>1</sup> N Nishimura,<sup>1</sup>

Y Mishima,<sup>1</sup> K Ueda,<sup>1</sup> N Tsuyama,<sup>2</sup> H Yamauchi,<sup>1</sup> A Takahashi,<sup>1</sup> N Inoue,<sup>1</sup> K Takeuchi,<sup>2,3</sup> and K Hatake<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup>Department of Hematology Oncology, Cancer Institute Hospital, Japanese Foundation for Cancer Research; <sup>2</sup>Division of Pathology, The Cancer Institute, Japanese Foundation for Cancer Research; <sup>3</sup>Pathology Project for Molecular Targets, The Cancer Institute, Japanese Foundation for Cancer Research.