

Detection of Replication Competent Lentivirus Using a qPCR Assay for VSV-G

Lindsey M. Skrdlant, Randall J. Armstrong, Brett M. Keidaisch, Mario F. Lorente, and David L. DiGiusto

Correspondence: David DiGiusto, PhD, Laboratory for Cell and Gene Medicine, Department of Pediatrics, Stanford University School of Medicine, 855 S. California Ave., Room G100A, Palo Alto, CA 94304, USA.

E-mail: digiusto@stanford.edu

<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.omtm.2018.02.007>

(Molecular Therapy: Methods & Clinical Development 8, 1–7; March 16, 2018)

Following the publication of this article, the authors noted that the hydrolysis probe sequence was written incorrectly. The correct hydrolysis probe sequence is 5'-6FAM-ATTGGACATGGTATGTTGGACTCCG-MGBNFQ-3'.

