Corrigendum: Improving Implementation of the Endangered Species Act: Finding Common Ground Through Common Sense

PAUL HENSON, ROLLIE WHITE, AND STEVEN P. THOMPSON

In the original version of the article, Figure 3 caption mistakenly attributed annual ESA expenditures to the USFWS annual budget. The caption has been corrected to reflect these are the combined annual ESA expenditures of Federal and State agencies.

Paul Henson (pchenson@comcast.net) has worked as a research scientist, field biologist, and wildlife manager throughout the West for 35 years and is currently with the USFWS in Portland, Oregon. Rollie White has worked for 30 years as a fisheries scientist and endangered species biologist in Oregon and California and is also with the USFWS in Portland. Steven P. Thompson is a consulting biologist who worked for the USFWS for 31 years before retiring; he is currently serving as chairman of the board to the Peregrine Fund.
