

The July 1, 2019, article by Sharma et al, entitled “Nivolumab Alone and With Ipilimumab in Previously Treated Metastatic Urothelial Carcinoma: CheckMate 032 Nivolumab 1 mg/kg Plus Ipilimumab 3 mg/kg Expansion Cohort Results” (J Clin Oncol 10.1200/JCO.19.00538), was published with an error.

In Figure A1A in the appendix, the green column at the far right was labeled $n = 42$. It should have been $n = 31$.

This has been corrected as of July 1, 2019. Journal of Clinical Oncology apologizes for the error.

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1200/JCO.19.01700>

Participate in ASCO's Practice Guidelines Implementation Network and Influence Cancer Care

ASCO members are invited to serve in the society's Practice Guidelines Implementation Network (PGIN), a network of oncology professionals who raise awareness of ASCO's evidence-based recommendations on cancer care.

Participation in PGIN provides an opportunity for members to positively influence the way that clinical oncology is delivered now and in the future. PGIN members have the opportunity to:

- Participate in guideline panels and advisory groups
- Aid in developing and reviewing guidelines and guideline clinical tools and resources
- Serve as an “ambassador” to state societies
- Better implement guidelines

To learn how you can participate, visit asco.org/guidelines, or contact pgin@asco.org

ASCO[®] PGIN