Retraction Announcement

Based on the retraction guidelines of Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE), the following manuscript entitled "Time course changes of oxidative stress and inflammation in hyperoxia-induced acute lung injury in rats" has been retracted from our summer, 2019 issue.

It has been retracted on a request from all the authors because some of them published the article without any permission from the other authors listed in the paper.

Journal editors are convinced to retract the paper since authors are all in agreement to retract the publication themselves.

The retraction will appear on all electronic searches for the retracted publication.
