

ADVANCED SCIENCE

Open Access

TWO-PHOTON POLYMERIZATION

In article number 2204072 by Andrew Kellett and co-workers, a series of two-photon printed microstructures used in optical, drug delivery, tissue engineering, and microfluidic devices are placed on the columns of the Giant's Causeway, which is a natural phenomenon of interlocking basalt columns that resulted from ancient volcanic activity on the coast of county Antrim, Ireland.