

Supplementary Figure 1: Effects of fluence on corneal surface temperature.

The temperature of the corneal surface was measured eight times: before riboflavin saturation, after saturation and after each irradiation cycle, to check the effects of fluence on the corneal surface temperature.