Additional Information

Explanation for why data not available: The data reported in the current article are not publicly available because they contain extremely sensitive information that could compromise research participant privacy and confidentiality. We cannot provide individual level data from this project because our confidentiality agreement with the participants in this study precludes this. The data are available on request from the corresponding author [CSW] by qualified scientists. Requests require a concept paper describing the purpose of data access, ethical approval at the applicant's university in writing, and provision for secure data access.
