Appendix file 8: Decision curve analysis for evaluating clinical usefulness. The X-axis is the probability threshold. When a probability threshold is used as the cutoff value, the corresponding Y-axis value indicates the net benefit value, suggesting how many people per 100 people will benefit without negatively influencing other patients.