
Research Highlights

- A marine medicinal brown alga-derived fungal strain Xylaria acuta SC1019 was isolated.
- Nine previously unreported chemical entities were isolated and identified from the fermented products.
- The anti-inflammatory and anti-angiogenic activities of all the isolates were evaluated.