

Supplemental figure 4. Collagen is deposited around the parasite at later stages of a challenge infection and is associated with the Th2 inflammatory response. Tissue sections of the host:parasite interface, stained with picosirius red for fibrosis, display red strands, indicative of collagen, extending into the muscularis region and encircling the parasite 12 days (b), but not 4 days (a) after challenge.