

Figure S2: V1 atlases generated via surface registration of each hemisphere to a template created from in vivo subjects. V1 probability is indicated by the color of the vertex, with yellow indicating high probability and red indicating low probability, as shown by the color bars.