

ab

(a) Absorption and emission fluorescence spectra for quantum yield determination at different concentrations of the free Pharois dye. (b) Plotting the integrated fluorescence intensity versus the corresponding absorption value for quantum yield determination: For low concentrations when molecules are not influenced by each other there is a linear relation (red squares). The slope of the linear regression was compared to the standard substance quinine sulphate to calculate the relative quantum yield.