

This BioMEMS device uses PDMS microfluidic tunnels to permit long-term and enhanced electrical recordings of action potentials from isolated axons with high spatial selectivity to monitor changes in conduction velocity.