Self-Assessment of eHealth Competencies for Students

Why assess my skills?

When you research health topics, you want to get information that is accurate, balanced, and complete. It's not easy to find that. Here is why,

- Of 228 TV health segments reviewed by health information experts, "many of the stories [were] bad and they [weren't] getting much better" (1).
- Medical science reports in newspapers and magazines are sometimes distorted in the direction of sensation (2).
- It's cheap and fast to publish online. A person can create a website that looks as sleek as a website by a respected organization. There are no clear standards for internet publishing. It's hard to tell apart health news and ads. Copied content is not updated (3). Finally, some of the best health information is online but a password is needed to see it. You may be able to access it as a student...if you know what to do.

Get the picture? It may be easy to get health information but sorting through it gets tricky. It matters what source you use, how you search, what results you pick and how you use what you find. This tool helps you be better and faster at finding what you need online.

ONLINE CONSULTATIONS

Online consultations are the latest concept in health care utilizing the Internet to improve patient access to physician care. A very large percentage of United States physicians currently pescribe medications by reviewing a client's medical history without an in-person physical exam. The patient completes an online questionnaire in the same manner as they would in a physician's office.

FREE MEDICAL REVIEW

If you do not have a prescription from your physician or doctor, most of the online pharmacies provide online consultations some of which are complimentary FREE and others charge a fee for this type of service. We offer FREE medical review with prescription from real doctor. First of all, you open up an account, by submitting your name, address, phone number, credit card number and insurance information if applicable.

Customers☐ Comments

"Thank you for being my online doctor! I have been getting your medications for the past month. I had had 2 major surjeries, both with complications, in the past year and just never started feeling "well" again. I did some investigation, and realized I probably had an allergy, and your doctors confirmed it. I don't know how they could tell it right away, but I am thankful that I once again have energy and feel "well" once again. Thanks,"
