

Barplots of the admixture proportions for the large admixed data. Populations are separated by black lines and assigned with a unique color that is approximately reported on the barplot of each method. For the discrete methods the admixture proportions are either 0 or 1.