

Mu Q et al

Additional File 2

Higher magnification of the boxed region in additional file 1. This stereo pair of images (angular separation of 6 degrees) taken from a tilt series that confirms that the silica particles are located within the cell and are not just on the surface of the ultra-thin section. A movie of this tilt series is also available in additional file 8.