

Figure S6. Proportions of the six distinct Ser codons for each of the 80 taxa in this study. Taxa are clustered by their higher-level classification to demonstrate that, in general, there is substantial variation in codon usage within higher-level groups, as well as across them.

