

Figure 7: Variability of the prediction accuracy of HPCall. The obtained prediction accuracies are very stable among the different random samples of training data. The standard deviations of the prediction accuracies range from 0.000024 (for nucleotide C) to 0.000047 (for nucleotide T).