

Supplementary figure S1. (A) Transmission electron microscopy (TEM) photomicrograph of an olive stigma before pollination showing papillae ultrastructure and the presence of a copious exudate covering its surface. (B) TEM photomicrograph as above showing intact papillae after exudate collection by brushing.