

Graphical Abstract

An antibody barcode microchamber array chip permits the measurement of secreted proteins from pairs of individual tumor and macrophage cells and quantifying paracrine signaling-induced functional changes.

