

Figure S4. The phagocytosis of C. albicans cells by human neutrophils is not significantly affected by their treatment with 200 μ M glibenclamide or apocynin.

C. albicans cells were labeled with FITC, co-incubated with blood-derived human neutrophils for 60 min, and the rate of phagocytosis determined by FACS analysis (mean \pm SD, n=3).