

Data Supplement 2. Example of identification of CPR chest compression segments.

Clock time (angled numbers) identified for beginning and end of each chest compression segment.

Automated chest compression pattern classification based upon chest compression segments identified in this manner.

