

Figure S1. Regression plot relating size and rate of toxin evolution

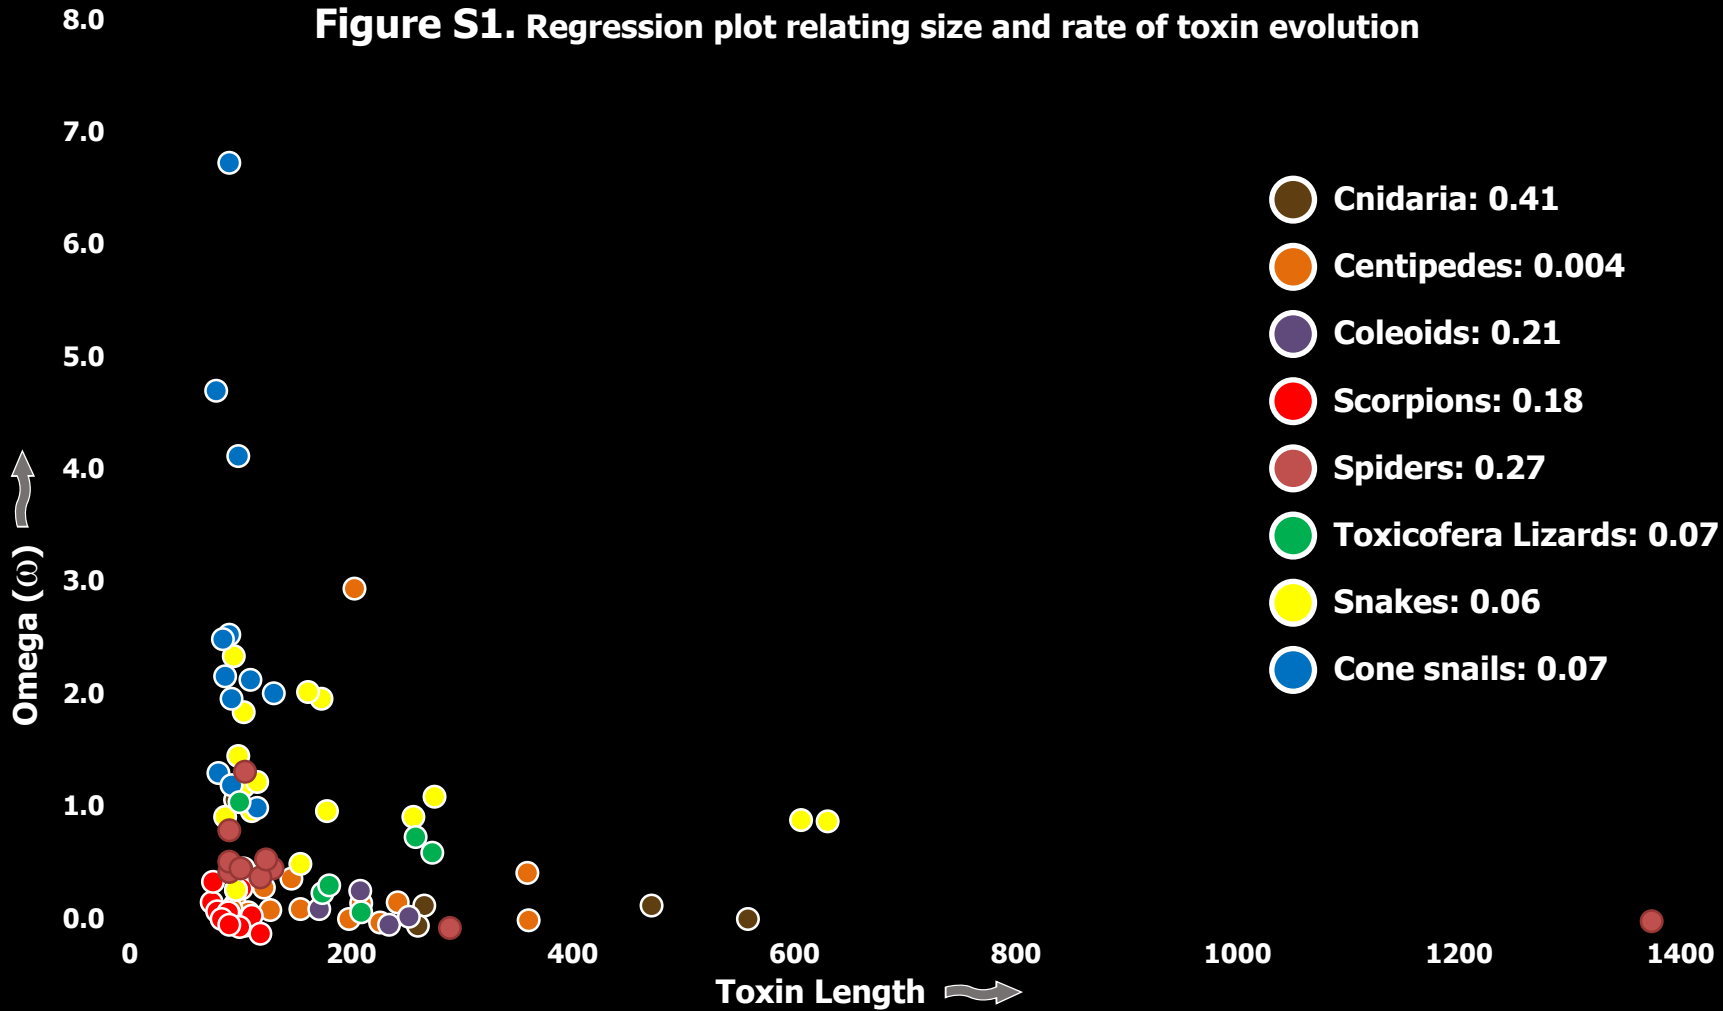

Figure S1: Regression analyses of various toxin types in each of the examined venomous lineage is presented here. Omega values are plotted against the size/length of the respective toxin type. The coefficient of determination (r^2) for each clade has also presented. r^2 values closer to 0 suggest an absence of correlation between the size of the toxin and its omega (rate of evolution) value.