Figure S1. Example of the decision tree for the approval of the swine influenza vaccine in 2009, where decision of approval planning is followed by the consequences for disease seriousness. Efficacy branches attach to A through D, whereas safety branches to E through G resulting in 24 scenarios with calculable event outcomes. Based on [46].