

Figure S4. Calibration curve for active protein concentration (Kazemier method). Active protein concentration standards were injected over the surface of a sensor chip saturated with ligand (b-PEG-ABA) and the initial association rate in a 5 s window, 10 s after the start of the injection, was plotted against concentration and fitted to a linear function.