

Figure S2 A tracer was administered via inhalation in order to characterize the mucociliary clearance in rats. The retention of the tracer was governed by SPECT-imaging and data is presented as the fraction of tracer retained in the lung (f_{ret}). Observations from ⁶ are indicated by circles and the model fit by a solid line.