

Fig. S3: Recaptured male that had shifted between body color morphs. On the left, the male is in a brown morph during a second or third breeding season, and on the right the same male in a green morph during the following breeding season.