

Figure S3

Figure S3. Addition of exogenous abscisic acid is not enough to completely close the stomatal pore under high relative humidity (RH). Stomatal aperture width in intact leaves of Col-0 2 h after exposure to the varying concentrations of abscisic acid. Data points are average ($n > 60$) \pm SE and different letters above the bars indicate statistical significance ($p < 0.05$) calculated with ANOVA.