
Figure S1. We re-analyzed the functional connectivity strength (FCS) and corresponding functional connectivity patterns in 23 medication-free patients to determine whether our findings from the 34 major depressive disorder (MDD) patients are drug effect. The results obtained from 23 medication-free MDD patients are similar to the findings from all the 34 MDD patients suggesting our findings are not the drug effect.

