

Figure S9: Nuclear translocation of beta catenin in BeWo trophoblast cell culture upon conditioning with the supernatant from the decidualized endometrial stromal cells. In addition to results shown in Figure 5, this figure illustrates that neither the fresh growth medium nor fresh decidualization medium, nor conditioned (supernatant) medium of undifferentiated maternal cells can induce the translocation. This demonstrates extended communication upon decidualization of the endometrium.