

Appendix 2: Cochrane Effective Practice And Organisation of Care Review Group taxonomy of interventions:
Professional interventions	For example; distribution of educational materials to healthcare professional, or educational meetings, or audit and feedback.
Organisational interventions	For example; Revision of professional role (e.g. community pharmacist providing case management for patient with diabetes) or skill mix changes (changes in numbers, types or qualifications of staff). Included telemedicine interventions with predominant organisational elements.
Patient-orientated interventions	For example; patient education, peer support or support for self management. Including telephone and telemedicine interventions with predominant patients elements (with focus on self-management)
Financial interventions	For example; Fee-for-service for provider or a penalty for the patient.
Regulatory interventions	For example; changes to local or national regulations designed to alter care delivery to improve outcomes.