

S2 Fig. Additional evidence of flush shoot growth stages from adult plants in the field ('Valencia' sweet orange). Flush shoot developmental stage is not a question of size, but of phenotypical characteristics that indicate the onset of a certain developmental phenomena. Some shoots may have very few leaves (1 - 5), which makes the transition between stages faster.