

Supplementary figure 1. Targeting LSCs via receptor-specific antibody-drug conjugates A cytotoxic drug is covalently conjugated to a monoclonal antibody which has the capacity for binding to a specific cell surface antigen expressed specifically on the surface of LSC. When the antibody binds to the LSC surface antigen, it delivers its anticancer cytotoxic cargo into the target cell.

