

Figure S3. Unweighted and weighted effect size plots for the fetal distress cohort. These plots compare the absolute standardized mean differences between the mode of delivery groups on the study covariates, before and after weighting. Absolute standardized mean differences of <0.20 in the weighted groups indicate good balance. A statistically significant absolute standardized difference between the weighted and unweighted values is indicated by the solid circle.