

Changes in left atrial structure and mechanical function

Left ventricular remodeling occurring concurrently with left atrial structural & mechanical changes

10 months of high intensity endurance training

No significant changes in left atrial electrophysiological function that could be associated with atrial fibrillation

Dose of endurance exercise training that leads to atrial fibrillation is unknown