

Table with multiple columns of text, likely representing a sequence alignment or a data matrix. The table is organized into rows and columns, with some cells containing specific identifiers or codes. The text is dense and appears to be a technical or scientific dataset.