

Figure S1: Principal Component Analysis using the three features implemented in MARVEL's Random Forest classifier. The first and second component explain 89% of the variation and each feature contributes proportionally to the length of its vector shown within the circle. Feature values were scaled and centered and PCA analysis was performed with `pcomp()` function from R.