

Supplementary Figure 1. A renal artery before and after chemical renal denervation is shown. The kidney is approached through a lateral abdominal incision. The vessel going over the black string is the exposed renal artery. The renal artery is gently painted with a cotton swab soaked with a solution of 95% ethanol and 10% phenol in ethanol. Dilatation of renal artery is noted after renal denervation.