

Hi all

We're trying to get feedback on how our use of TENS units is working in the ED.

Just in case you're not familiar with TENS units - they're the small devices that have wires attached to sticky electrode pads that we're putting on patients to help with pain. We've been using them for the past few months - and want to see what you think!

Thanks for your help!

1. What is your job in the ED?
