

Supplemental Figure 1: Population-average data points describing the longitudinal change observed in the contralateral lung for all conventionally-fractionated RT patients. The number of patients contributing at each timepoint is shown in Table I and average functional change was measured over 1 Gy dose bins. Error bars represent the standard error based on the number of voxels contributing to the data point.