

Figure S7. C. elegans assessed for aversion behavior using 8M glycerol in ring assay. The ability avoid high osmotic region was observed for all the strains. No significant difference observed. Each data point represents means  $\pm$  the standard error of three replicates. (n.s denotes non-significant. Statistical significance was calculated comparing single treatments.)