My hearing

Here you can see your audiograms. The blue line shows your left ear hearing and the red line shows your right ear hearing. There is also a black line...

All sounds and letters in the yellow 'talking-banana', which are above your audiogram lines are difficult for you to hear. You can test out the sounds and letters by clicking the different images and letters above and below your audiogram. They will give you a sound experience of how much your hearing aids helps you, if you listen to the sounds both with and without your hearing aids. This knowledge can also be used to let others know about your specific hearing loss. If you want to know more, please watch this video:

Tasks - level of satisfaction with hearing aids questionnaire

Try listening to the different sounds surrounding you throughout the day. Find out if the tonal balance is fitting. Remember that the sounds will be experienced differently with your hearing aids, than without them. How would you generally describe the sound quality of your hearing aids?

Pleasant

Too harsh, metallic, too light tones

Too muted, toneless, too dark tones
