

Magnetic storms disrupt nocturnal migratory activity in songbirds

Giuseppe Bianco, Mihaela Ilieva and Susanne Åkesson

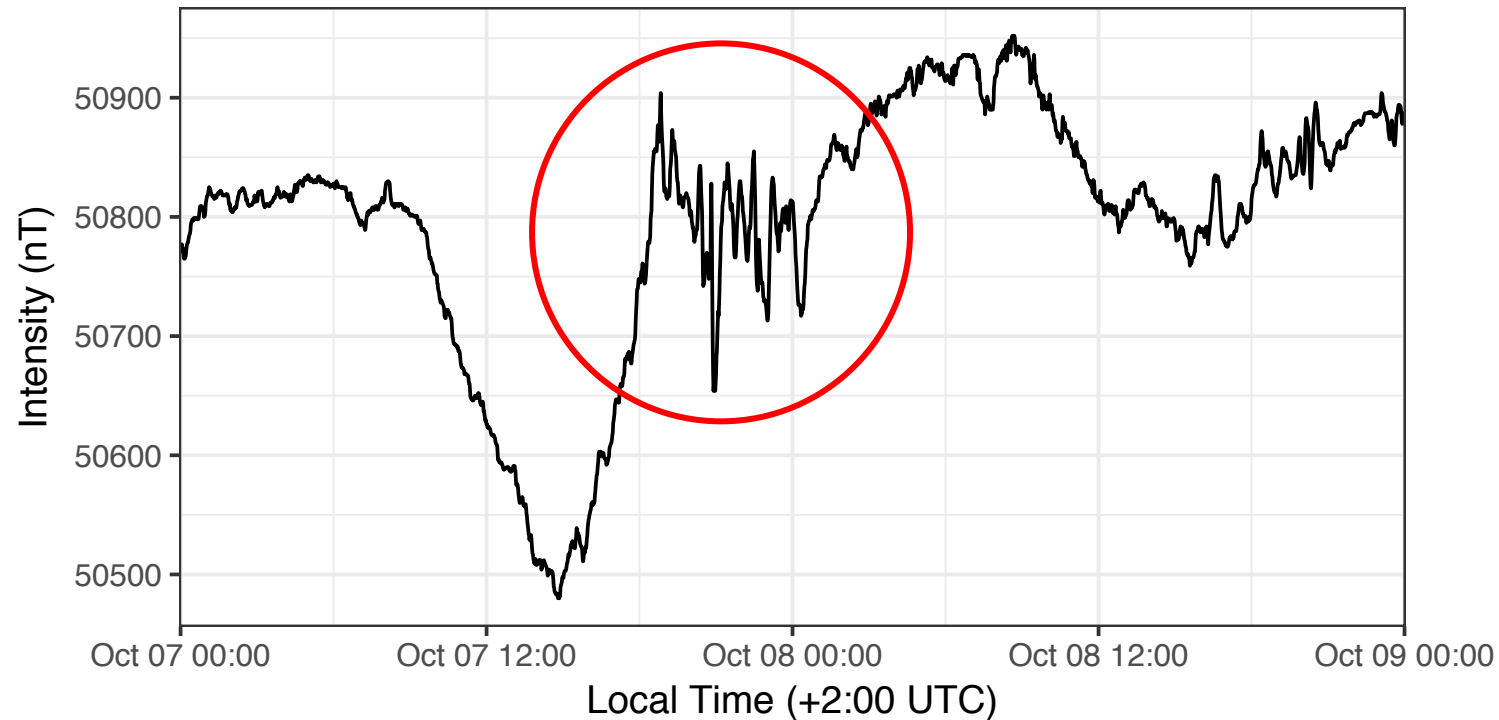

Figure S1. Example of geomagnetic intensity profile during a magnetic storm recorded between 7 and 8 October 2015 in the same facility and with the same equipment used during the experiments. The red circle indicates a phase of short-term periodic variation of the disturbance that we tried to replicate in amplitude and frequency composition during our experiment.