

Supplementary Fig. 3. The largest biologically relevant subnetworks determined by certain disease phenotypes and gene expression changes, including subnetworks related to biological functions, such as translational elongation, regulation of apoptosis, and immune system processes.