

Fig. S7. The 'No load' units showed on average far less clay per volume than the 'With load' units. The notches of the boxes indicate 95% confidence intervals which are non-overlapping hence differences between the 'No load' and the 'With load' units are significant at the 5% level; results here are qualitatively the same as in Oberst, Lai & Evans [10].