

Appendix 3 (as supplied by the authors): Interview guide

[Obtain consent prior to interview]

Main Question	Examples of potential additional probing questions (May not be asked)
Identity: 1. Do you identify as Indigenous? [To ensure participant meets inclusion criteria; answer should be no]
Motivation 2. What was your motivation in pursuing research with or about Indigenous communities?
Approach 3. What is your approach to Indigenous health research? 4. What do you feel are the strengths and weaknesses of your approach? 5. How does your work with Indigenous communities differ from your other research projects?	a) Do you involve/consult specific community members at any point in the process?     a. How do you develop a research question?     b. How do you go about designing a methodology?     c. What are some of the methodologies you employ for data collection?     d. What informs your analysis of the data?     e. What are your approaches to dissemination/publication/translation into action?
Knowledge and understanding: 6. Are there any policy statements that you consult when designing a research project? 7. What does coproduction mean to you?	a) Specifically, are you familiar with the Tri-council agreement? b) Do you consult the specific policies of     a. CIHR     b. NSERC     c. SSHRC
Personal experience 8. What are some challenges (logistical, ethical) that you've encountered during your work with Indigenous communities	a) What change would you make, if any, to the current research/ethics requirements concerning work indigenous health research b) How have you approached the resolution of any ethical dilemmas?